THE COLONIAL SHAFT ORDERED.

MAJOR MOREHEAD DESCRIBES ITS BEAUTIES.

There Must Be An Unveiling When Gov. Aycock Comes—$385 Yet Needed in the Undertaking.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

An order for a handsome Colonial column at Guilford has just been placed with the Mt. Airy Granite Company. The high character of the Messrs. Woodroffe, lessees and managers of this wonderful quarry, guarantees the excellency of their work in every respect.

The column will stand twenty feet in height, without the proposed statue of seven feet. It is modeled, up to the fifth stone, after the pedestal over the lamented Judge Gilmer. This pedestal will be enlarged and be between six and seven feet high. Upon this will be placed a shaft of alternate rough and dressed segments after the style of the memorial to Mr. Gray. It will, of necessity, be beautiful. We have been unable anywhere to find a more perfectly proportioned pedestal or a more unique and picturesque shaft.

An order for four elegant bronze tablets, to be attached to the monument, has also been placed with the Messrs. Bureau Bros., of Philadelphia. In words of truth and soberness these will proclaim North Carolina's glory forever. Cash paid in and sub-scriptions by good men have just filled the issuance of these orders. Herein lies occasion for congratulation to the State and more particularly to this immediate vicinity. Do you not think so?

Three hundred and eighty-five dollars are yet needed for crowning this noble memorial with a suitable statue—the figure of a frontiersman—a North Carolina militiaman, the pioneer of American liberty.

Will not some gentleman of means, with an eye to the honoring of the State, of the historic old county of Guilford and to the beautifying and adorning of her capital city, give this amount and let the order be given at once? We hope so.

If it does not suit any individual to embrace this opportunity of doing a very graceful and helpful act, will not our Industrial and Immigration Association vote the amount?

This Association has proven itself keenly alive to the city's interest and quite efficient in advancing the same. Can it do better than vote a subscription to this handsome monument? Boston, New York, Washington City and Atlanta papers and magazines have, since November last, given us nice and very extensive notices—all through the medium of our patriotic efforts to preserve this old battle field of Guilford Court House.

An immense throng will greet Gov. Aycock here on the next Fourth of July. No celebration is complete without an unveiling.

Lets unveil then and there the Colonial Column completed.

Yours truly,

JOS. M. MOREHEAD,
Vice-Pres. G. B. G. Co.

P. S.—Meanwhile, gentle men, let's continue to chip in our five and ten dollars. The list now amounts to $665.

Announcement.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

Please announce in your paper that the Rev. W. W. Lucas, A. B.; B. D.; Ph. D., will be at St. Matthew's M. E. Church tomorrow and will preach at 3 p. m., and 7:30 p. m.

Mr. Lucas is a graduate of the Clark University, Gammon Theological Seminary and Boston University. Mr. Lucas is a very excellent speaker having few equals in the pulpit or on rostrum. He will address the Epworth League one night next week. Come and hear him for yourself.

Very Respectfully,
S. A. Peeler, Pastor.

The Commercial Hotel was the scene last night of a merry party of some of Greensboro's young people, who enjoyed themselves long after the mid-night hour struck.

Mrs. C. W. Bannister will sing the offering at West Market church to-morrow morning.

SOME SOCIAL EVENTS OF THE WEEK.

The Bachelor Girls had a most enjoyable meeting Thursday afternoon with Misses May and Alice Small, at their charming home on West Market street.

Mrs. Litchine, of New York, Mrs. Cornelius Mebane, Mrs. Haynes, and Miss Lizzie Dick scored an even number of points in the game of the afternoon, and cut for the prize. Miss Dick was the fortunate one, and received an extremely pretty picture. Miss Balsley was awarded the consolation—a silver call bell.

Misses Small were assisted in doing the honors by their sister, Mrs. W. B. Merrimon, of Minneapolis, Minn., a popular ex-Bachelor Girl. Those present were: Mrs. Litchine, of New York, Mrs. Ceasar Cone, Mrs. L. W. Woodruff, Mrs. Cornelius Mebane, Mrs. Hayne, Mrs. A. H. Alderman, Mrs. Carter, Mrs. E. A. Holt, and Misses Nan Mebane, Lucy Glenn, Minnie Reid, Vivian Shober, Bessie Merrimon, Lizzie Leigh Dick, Mary Goolsby, Walker Fry, Mabel Hill, Marjorie Lyon, Frances O'Brien, Peari and Elizabeth Balsley.

Miss Marjorie Lyon will entertain the club next Thursday afternoon.

There was a delightful German last night at the McAdoo House. Brockmann's orchestra furnished good music. Mr. Templar Horry led with his usual skill, and altogether the evening was a success in every respect. The participants were: Misses Marjorie Lyon, Lizzie Leigh Dick, Nell Balsley, of Reidsville, Bertha Heleas, of Winston, Reid, K. Bradshaw, Katherine Jeter, Allie Cuthin, of Waitakers, May Goolsby, Mabel Glenn, Nora Balsley, Smith, of Philadelphia, Louise Bradshaw, Pauline Pretzfelder, Mrs. Sam Gilmer, Mrs. Jas. Forbes, Mrs. Cutchin, Mrs. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Whitlock, Messrs. Templar Horry, Roy S. Oane, Will McAdoo, Jesse Rankin, Jess Mebane, Roland Hill, Harry Sergeant, Charles Forbes, Bernie Gilmer, Luke Andrews, Jr., W. H. Turner, Jr., Dick Debuts, Ney Forbes, Victor Sergeant, Palmer, of Danville, T. C. Coffin, Lucky Rankin, June Sales, Paul Scheek, Hart, of Raleigh, Charles Cline, Charles Vanstry, R. P. Turner, J. L. Causey, Faison, of Raleigh.

Mrs. Ceaser Cone entertained yesterday at one of the most elegant "At Homes" of the season, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Litchine, of New York.

Parms, and quantities of violets and hyacinths shed their beauty and fragrance through the handsome rooms. Particularly attractive was the dining room, where the decorations most in evidence were appropriate to the day. From the chandelier, where were suspended a hatchet, to each corner of the table, smilax was fastened, and tastily intertwined in its graceful, pretty foliage were numbers of small flags, and red, white and blue ribbon, while strewn over the table in artistic carelessness were little emblems of that cherry tree incident.

The souvenirs were boxes of candy made in clever imitation of the wood of the tree, in which was stuck the proudest hatchet.

Mrs. Cone was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Litchine, Mrs. F. W. Lindau and Mrs. Carter conducted the guests from the parlor to the dining room, where Mrs. C. Mebane, and Mrs. Woodruff presided.

Miss Nan Mebane will entertain the Social Card Club next Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Mary Applegate, and Mr. E. D. Broadhurst, assisted by Mrs. G. W. Whitsett, entertained the senior class of the High School, last night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Whitsett, on Summit Avenue.

The color scheme on this occasion was very appropriately, red, white and blue, and perfectly was it carried out. Star spangled banners, large and small, decorated the parlors, and from each gas jet was hung a hatchet. The tally cards were blue hatchets tied with red and white ribbon. Even

DOWN INTO THE SEA.

ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTY LOST.

CONSUL WILDMAN AND ALL HIS FAMILY AMONG THE VICTIMS.

The ill-fated vessel, Rio Janeiro, struck an unseen rock in San Francisco Harbor and sank like lead—A falling mast cut Mr. Wildman's boat in two.

By Wire to The Telegram.

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—The loss of life occasioned by the sinking of the Rio Janeiro is now estimated at about one hundred and thirty, of whom eighty-six are Chinese. So far of all those lost only a dozen bodies have been recovered, as the tide ran swiftly out to sea when the vessel struck.

The following were saved: Captain Hecht, of the German Army; Mrs. K. West, R. Holt, W. Brander, Jr., Russell Harper, J. K. Carpenter, Miss Ripley, a nurse; Miss Gabriel Rhemes, Civade Nusbaum, R. H. Long, Philip Nessenblatt, Mrs. Robina Robbins, Miss Robbins.

Fifty-one of the crew were lost, also Consul General Wildman and his wife and two children and a nurse, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Dr. Dodd, Dr. Utoma and servant, C. W. Hen-haw, Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth, C. Dowdall, H. F. Seymour, H. C. Matheson, W. A. Henshall, Mrs. Jebu, D. A. W. Dodd, William Caspi, the ship officers, and 66 Chinese.

The fate of Consul Wildman and family was settled by Mrs. West, who saw them all except one child in a small boat along side the steamer just as the vessel sank. As she went down one of the masts fell, cutting the boat, in which the Wildmans were, in two and sinking it. As the Wildmans were not seen afterward it is pretty sure that they sank with the vessel.

Last Night's Account.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—The Pacific Mail steamer Rio de Janeiro, ran on a hidden rock, while entering the Golden Gate, early this morning, in a dense fog. She sank a few minutes after striking. It is thought that nearly 122 persons were drowned, but it is impossible to ascertain the number, owing to the fact that Purser John Rooney, who had the passenger list and roster of the crew, is among the missing. At 5 o'clock this afternoon ten bodies had been recovered, two white women, one white man and seven Chinese. The most prominent passenger on the steamer was Rounsville Wildman, United States consul at Hong Kong, who was accompanied by his wife and two children. It is thought all were drowned. The ship was in command of Pilot Frederick Jordan when she struck. He was rescued. Captain Wm. Ward went down with his vessel. As nearly as can be learned there were 201 people on board the Rio de Janeiro, as follows: Cabin passengers, 29; second cabin, 7; steerage (Chinese and Japanese), 58; officers and crew, 107. The following have been accounted for: Rescued, 79; bodies at the morgue, 10; total 89. Missing, 122.

IN SQUIRE WOLFE'S COURT.

Commissioner Wolfe had two cases yesterday afternoon, one the United States against John Stewart, John Whitt, and Alvin Dick, colored, and the other the United States against D. C. Welker. The first case was tried and the defendants bound over in the sum of $250 each, the evidence being the same in both cases. Mr. Welker waived examination, and was bound over in a similar amount.

Some time about the first of the year the revenue force seized the government distillery of Mr. John Stewart, the charge being that there was some irregularity in the running of the still. Mr. Welker was storekeeper and guager of the distillery at the time.

FIVE COUNTS.

THE ARTICLE OF IMPEACHMENT DISCUSSED AND PRESENTED TO THE SENATE.

Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Feb. 23.—At noon the impeachment managers appeared and reported the articles of impeachment.

Winston read them, and the House in committee of the whole, Gattis in the chair, considered them. They were adopted by a vote of 56 to 33. At 2:15 the members of the House, preceded by the managers, went to the Senate chamber and presented the articles.

There are five counts. The last one is the most important one. It charges that the Judges, in the "office-holding cases," persistently, wilfully and unlawfully sought to bring the Legislature into disrepute, contempt and public scandal, and by a specious course of reasoning, tried to nullify, destroy and in effect repeal the legislative acts.

A bill was introduced in the House to allow mayors of towns to perform marriage ceremonies.

Bill passed incorporating the Atlantic and North Western Railway.

The resignation of Judge A. M. Moore of the Eastern Criminal Circuit was received by the Governor and the Legislature passed a bill to authorize the Governor to fill the vacancy.

EXTRA SESSION CALLED.

By Wire to The Telegram.

TO HAVE PARK IN CITY LIMITS.

ALDERMEN ACCEPT TENDER OF FISHER LAND.

The Only Conditions Being That the Fourteen Acres Be Kept Up and a Drive and Walkway be Built Around It—Other Work of the Aldermen.

Greensboro is to have a beautiful park within the city limits, convenient to the central part of the city, large enough for a park and in an almost ideal position. The tract lies at the north end of North Elm street, half on each side, and will make a beautiful park. The ground was tendered to the Aldermen last night by Mr. E. P. Wharton in the following paper:

"We tender to the City of Greensboro a tract of land for a park, as shown by Pierce's survey, containing (including drive and walkway) about fourteen acres of land, on conditions that you will build or grade a nice driveway around the park; driveway to be thirty feet wide and walkway to be ten feet wide, and the same to be kept up by the city in good condition for driving. We agree to furnish curbing stone for curbing the sidewalk around the park, provided the city will haul same from the cars and set the stone. The land is to be deeded to the city for a park in fee-simple with conditions that it is always to be kept up by the city."

"Believing that the city will take a pride in this park, as it is in a central locality, and keep it up in such condition as a park of this kind should be kept up, we make no further conditions.

"We will also make a deed to the city, of No. 11 Elm street from the old corporation limits north as far as the Fisher land extends.

"SO. LOAN & TRUST CO., Arts,
"for B. J. Fisher."

The street committee made a unanimous report in favor of accepting the offer, and several of the members expressed gratification that the city could get a park on such reasonable terms. The tender was unanimously accepted.

At the regular session of the Aldermen last night there were absent Messrs. Boyd, Joyner, Hunter, Scott and Sherwood. Mayor pro tem. Sergeant presided.

Mr. John Lewis was elected to succeed Mr. R. M. Phillips from the 5th Ward. Mr. Lewis immediately took the oath of office.

Mr. J. W. Forbis appeared before the Board in regard to market house hours and reduction of rent of stalls on the south side of the house. All were referred to the market committee.

Mr. F. N. Taylor, the chief of the fire department, asked for the purchase of 1,500 feet of hose, which was ordered.

Mr. C. H. Ireland, of the Odell Hardware Company, asked that the city put down a surface drain pipe from the Odell Hardware Company's store up South Elm street to Washington street, and down East Washington street to connect with surface drain. This was for the purpose of turning the water from across their lot where they expect to build. Referred to committee for investigation.

Mr. J. Turner Tate, who is now grading Tate street from West Market, Walker Avenue and Lithia street, asked that the city furnish sufficient drain pipes for the crossings on said street. The request was granted.

The Southern Construction Company filed a proposal for putting asphalt pavement on South Elm street from the depot to Court Square. Referred to street committee.

G. A. Miller filed application for retail liquor license at 233 South Elm street, West over two weeks.

Board meets again tonight to consider amendments to charter.

WAR DISTURBS ENGLISH COMPLACENCY

But There Will be no Halting--The Expense Which Will be Attached to Lord
Roberts' Earldom.

Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, February 22.—Londoners have not yet ceased to talk about the greatest event of recent years, save only the Queen's death—The opening of Parliament by King Edward VII. The ceremonies were the most gorgeous in forty years and the kingly mein of the new ruler, his gracious reference to his queen mother and his pledge to follow in her footsteps has somewhat moved the hearts of those who lately shook their heads when Edward's name was mentioned, and predicted all sorts of dire disasters under his reign. "Every inch a king," is what England's new ruler has proved himself to be thus far.

Now that Parliament is in session public affairs are brought once more within the range of vision. The war in South Africa still remains a source of national discontent and dissatisfaction. That the greatest military power on the globe should be unable to successfully cope with one so much inferior is not calculated to contribute to the complaisance of Englishmen. There are many who still recall the rosy predictions, made at the outset of the Boer uprising, that two or three months would suffice to put an end to the whole affair, and when the troops started for the front they went as to some holiday excursion, believing that the war would be over before they reached Africa, assures us that at all events there would be very little hard fighting. All the world knows the actual story of the long drawn out struggle and thousands of saddened homes and stricken hearts and millions of wasted treasures and perpetual reminders that the British Empire has encountered a difficult task. With few exceptions, however, the subjects of the Empire, whether here or in the outlying colonies, are firmly united in the determined purpose to prosecute the struggle to a successful conclusion, regardless of life and treasure. There will be no weakening nor turning back on the part of King or people.

The recent elevation of General Roberts to an Earldom brings to our attention the fact that titles are costly things and only rich men can afford to be belted earl. The unavoidable initial expenses which Lord Roberts will be called upon to pay, should he, as report avers, attain the dignity, will total up to something like £675.

The principal item in the bill will be the coronet. This is a circlet of gold, "chased as jewelled," according to the phraseology of heraldry, and with eight pyramidal points of gold, each of which supports a large silver ball, the spaces between the points being filled up at the bottom with golden strawberry leaves.

The manager of a fashionable goldsmith's establishment who was interrogated by a representative, confessed that his firm did not receive an order for a full-sized coronet every day. The trade in that article of headgear was seldom brisk, except at a coronation, but he was prepared to make a coronet of 18-carat gold, with jewelled cushion, for 450 guineas.

"A coronet of first quality gold," the jeweler further explained, "will last not only one but a dozen life times. Contrary to the opinion of our American cousins, peers do not wear their coronets while walking or driving in the park. Many of the emblems have not once embellished the brows of their aristocratic owners, and I dare say if we could peep into the exclusive corners of the safe deposit depots, we should discover many coronets that have scarcely ever seen the light of day."

Lord Roberts, will, in all probability, also find it necessary to purchase a new garter. These beautiful ornaments vary in price.

Then there is the robe which a peer must wear on his presentation in the House of Lords. This is of scarlet cloth with three "doublings" of ermine. A peer's rank in the peerage is denoted by the number of bars of ermine which traverse the robe back and front. Thus a duke has four bars in front and four behind, while an earl has three of each.

There are many other claims upon his purse. The chancellor of the exchequer demands certain fees for the patent of nobility, and the crown, on behalf of its officers who prepare and pass the patent requires further fees. Part of this money finds its way to the College of arms to supplement the salaries of the gentlemen with high sounding titles who keep the records of that venerable institution.

In addition to the passing of the patent, crests have to be prepared or changed and other formalities gone through. The cost under this general heading may be reckoned at fifty guineas, bringing the grand total up to ten shillings short of £675.

I SEE NOW

"Looking back I see I never saw before." This the exclamation of the many satisfied customers of DR. MOORE.

They have corrected successfully stubborn cases that others have failed to relieve. Your eyes should not be neglected. Much to lose and nothing gained.

LAST DAY OF CONVENTION.

Prof. Crowell, of High Point, Elected President.
Correspondence of The Telegram.

High Point, Feb. 22.—This is the closing day of the State Sunday School Association. Large crowds have been present at all the exercises throughout the day. Early this morning the Worker's conference was held and at 9 o'clock the convention assembled, being opened by a song service conducted by Prof. E. O. Excel. "Next Sunday's Lesson Taught," was a subject ably discussed by one of the International party.

Sunday School management and plans for the coming year were then taken up by the International party and explained in a simple and quite interesting manner.

The election of officers for the coming year was then brought before the Association with the following result:

President, Prof. Geo H. Crowell, of this place; Chairman Executive Committee, Mr. N. B. Brugton, of Raleigh; Treasurer, Joe H. Weathers, of Raleigh; Statistical Treasurer, H. M. Snow, of Durham; Recording Secretary, S. M. Smith, of Elon College.

Electing Prof. Crowell of this place President of the Convention was quite an unexpected honor to him, but deservedly.

There are 215 delegates enrolled at the convention and there are forty-seven counties represented.

Last night a collection for the State Sunday School Convention in its work this year was taken up and the handsome sum of $1000.50 raised. Guilford County, and especially High Point "won the banner" in giving in the largest amount.

The party leaves tomorrow for Spartanburg to spend Sunday going from there to Newbury, S. C., where the party conducts the next State Sunday School Convention.

Tonight's exercises brings the convention to a close.

Millions of people are familiar with DeWitt's Little Easy Chairs and those who use them find them to be famous little liver pills. Never gripe. Howard Gardner.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 23.

This city is to be congratulated upon the acquisition of a suitable site for a park within its limits upon such easy terms. There should be such a park in each of the other three sections of the town, and it would be strictly in order for some other gentlemen to follow Mr. Wharton's example. With these as strictly urban parks, and the Guilford Battle Ground Park as a magnificent suburban retreat, with car lines connecting them all, Greensboro would lead the State as a desirable place to live, and the big stream of population already coming here would be rapidly augmented.

BRAVE TALK.

According to a telegram received in this office, President Kruger today made the following statement:

"Although the governments of Europe would not interfere between the Transvaal and England, that will not prevent the masses of the people from believing that justice and right are on the side of the Boers. My hope still is that foreign governments will soon perceive their mistake and urge England to arbitrate. England may take our country, burn our farms, and kill our wives, but she will never take away our freedom."

These are brave words of the old man, but they are meaningless. If Mr. Kruger could only see that his attitude now is of more hardship to his countrymen than all that England will do after their "freedom" is gone, he might be in a position to do his country a service. He has exhausted every effort for arbitration on his grounds. England is fully determined to end the war satisfactorily to herself, and refusing to so allow it to be ended, Kruger is his country's worst friend. The gallant courage and fighting of the Boers, though they gain all manner of temporary advantage, must wear out, and why they should longer refuse to make terms, it is hard to see.

To the Statesville Landmark's reference concerning the defeat of the libel law, (if it shares the fate of the bill two years ago as seems very likely it will) the Gold Leaf goes upon record as saying that it will not support any man responsible therefor, however remote or great that responsibility may be, regardless of the politics he may profess. Nor will it stop at withholding support but it will oppose with all its might and power such man or men. This paper for one will not give aid and comfort to these small bore politicians who show by their acts that the only use they have for the newspapers is to be raised from obscurity to public notice and get boosted into office by them. The newspapers want but little but they will not get that little as long as they show the lack of firmness and independence they do.—Henderson Gold Leaf.

Counting you and us and The Gold Leaf, Brother Clark, how many does it make?

The practice of trying to step into a dead man's shoes before his body has been laid in the grave is opposed to all ideas of right and decency.—Raleigh Times.

What about killing the man, esteemed?

It is particularly sad that Consul Wildman, returning to his native land after a long and faithful foreign service, should lose his life with all his family, when just in sight of his own country's shore line.

"About this time last year," as the almanacs say, we were all talking about the condition of Lady Smith, since when she appears to have gotten no better.

With regard to the chances of impeachment, the following statement may be made: The Senate is composed of 50 members. Of these 40 are Democrats and 10 opposition. On a trial of impeachment three fourths are required to convict. This means 34 votes out of the 50. It is supposed that the opposition vote of ten will be cast against impeachment. If, therefore, seven Democrats shall vote nay, the impeachment will fall in the Senate.—Charlotte Observer.

So far as we can learn no man has a well grounded idea of what the result of the trial will be. Still it looks as if, only seven negative votes being lacking, the chances are that they may be found. This trial is a very serious affair, and it perhaps affects the State's standing abroad more than any other thing now before the public.

Too Personal.

The libel law will probably remain as it is. It is the only protection some of the legislators have.

STREET CORNER OBSERVATIONS.

"Dem Goo-Goo Eyes" is the favorite street melody just now. It was the star minstrel song last fall, and at last won a safe place in the minstrelsy of the street. Every little coon with a basket or a bundle has it among his whistling solos, and it is usually the favorite. The first goddess of the stage who sang "Goo-Goo Eyes," whatever kind they are, was, in statue, of medium size, and in voice, of medium quality. It is presumed that the artists who sing "Goo-Goo Eyes" represent with their own eyes their ideas of the goo-goos. That is the interesting part of the song. It gives such a field for variety of talent. For instance, the lady of medium figure and medium voice, had peculiar ideas about goo-goo eyes. She appeared to think that they were the brand of eyes especially appreciated by the colored population, hence she rolled them in fine frenzy towards the dark section of the gallery. From that day it has been a popular air with the dark section of the house. That popularity was enhanced by the very next individual who sang it. This one was a member of the Black Patti's company. She was, by virtue of the mixing of a very black skin with much white powder, of a motley bronze, short and stumpy, with dashing knee dresses. Her ideas of goo-goo eyes may be imagined. The next warbler with pantomime accompaniment who came was a fat lady. When she sang and made goo-goo eyes even the peanut crackers ceased their labor, and as her portly frontage rose in fatty undulations and her little fat-surrounded eyes made an effort to look bewitching, the audience quietly congratulated itself that the price of the ticket was not a matter to be regretted. And so the popularity of the goo-goo eyes has grown and grown.

A contractor who lays asphalt paving was in Greensboro sometime ago and, on the quiet, making a little investigation of his own. He remarked that the present paving of South Elm street was just the foundation to put asphalt on, and that a medium coat put down on these rocks would last all the time.

Everybody knows the Democracy of Squire Wolfe, the laureate, is unimpeachable, although he is a United States commissioner under a Republican administration. It has been noticed that Squire Wolfe continues to wear his Jule Carr button. This is conspicuous on the lapel of his coat even while he is representing Uncle Sam on the bench. The other day when the Squire was trying an up-country citizen, that individual appeared to be puzzled when he looked at the Jule Carr button. He evidently didn't know that the gentleman was the bard whose lines on Jule General Carr had been quoted all over North Carolina during the campaign. After the trial the puzzled citizen sought out Postmaster Glenn, with an anxious look on his face. "I low," he began, that you is a shore nuff Radikil, and if you is, I wanter ax you a question, but if you ain't I don't, 'cause I'm mixed up now, and I want to be shore o' my man this time." The Postmaster assured him that he was a perpendicular Republican. Being satisfied, the enquirer drew up close and in serious tones said: "Tell me what business the judge o' that 'ar Radikil court has with a Jule Carr button on."

A new remedy for biliousness is now on sale at C. E. Holton's drug store. It is called Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. It gives quick relief and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the first indication of the disease appears. Price, 25 cents per box. Samples free.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimonial of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employee of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He says: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the store of Mr. Houlehan and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I got a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale by C. E. Holton.

For the weakness and prostration following grippe there is nothing so prompt and effective as One Minute Cough Cure. This preparation is highly endorsed as an unfailing remedy for all throat and lung troubles and its early use prevents consumption. It was made to cure quickly.

THE HILLS OF LONG AGO.

When I backward turn my eyes
Dim against the distant skies,
Where the hues of Memory glow,
Rise the hills of Long Ago.

Comrade mine, while yet we may,
Let us thither for a day;
Tread the paths untrodden long,
Hear the unforgotten song;

See the faces fond that seem
Gazing at us through a dream;
Clasp the hands we clasped of yore
Kiss the lips of Love once more!

Set against such joy as this
Painly is our present bliss!
Ah, the wild, free, youthful will,
And the swift, ecstatic thrill!

Comrade mine, while yet we may,
Let us thither for a day—
Back into the wonder-glow!
To the hills of Long Ago!

Two Dinners at Pennington's

By Mrs. Moses P. Handy.

(Copyright, 1901, by the Authors' Associates.)

ALBERT WHITNEY knew that he could not marry. He was a sensible fellow, on the whole, and realized that it would be sheer idiocy to ask a woman to share his hall bedroom.

Yet Albert was in love.

Every Sunday in church he sat opposite Miss Gladys Pennington, and thought of her far more than he did of the sermon.

Miss Pennington's father was a retired carpet manufacturer, with a tidy fortune, to which Gladys and her brother James were sole heirs.

Albert was a clerk in a wholesale hardware store and, by hard labor, earned ten dollars a week. Of this five dollars went to his landlady.

The moth sighed for the star, and Albert sighed for Miss Pennington. The moth and the star were hardly further apart than Albert Whiting and Gladys Pennington. Albert had never spoken to her; she barely knew that he existed.

What, then, were Albert's feelings when, one day, after church, Mr. Amos Pennington pompously approached him and invited him to dine at his house on the following Sunday? He blushed like a girl, and stammered out an acceptance. Fortunately, Mr. Pennington did not wait for more. The invitation which meant so much for Albert to him meant only the discharge of a rather disagreeable duty which he admired himself for performing. He would have been thunderstruck at a refusal. Every year he obtained from the pastor of the congregation, of which he had long been senior deacon, a list of the young men who were punctual at church and summoned them to dinner. The good man liked to encourage piety and bestowed invitations on these exemplary young men in precisely the same spirit with which he awarded prize books for "regular attendance at Sabbath school."

The following Sunday, when Albert entered the Pennington drawing-room, punctually at two, he was surprised to find already there, besides the host, his wife, his son and daughter, 15 black-coated individuals with all of whom he was pretty well acquainted. The assembly reminded him of a special meeting of the "Young Men's Union."

It fell to Albert to escort Miss Pennington in to dinner. He, poor lad, was overwhelmed with the honor. He did not know that father Pennington, who exercised a strict supervision of his daughter's acquaintance, had chosen him as the most harmless and unassuming of the 16 young men.

Albert could think of absolutely no remark with which to open conversation. Miss Pennington, entirely at ease, saw his blushes with more pity than wonder. She was accustomed to her father's duty dinner parties and rather expected the guests to be awed. Mr. Whitney's shyness spoke in his favor, as a tribute of respect to her father. Mr. Pennington had brought his children up to strict observance of the fifth commandment.

"It is rather warm for the time of year," quoth the young lady, breaking the ice.

Albert raised his eyes and assented. He would have done so had Miss Pennington said that it was cold.

"What nice eyes he has," thought she. It was unusual for Gladys to notice a man's eyes. "It was frightfully hot at the lake last August," she said, aloud. "I think it could hardly have been warmer in town."

"It wasn't bad in town, except in the middle of the day," replied Albert, bravely.

"So you were not fortunate enough to be away on your vacation?"

Albert laughed. "No, I have my vacations in November." It was then October.

"That must be nice for shooting," murmured Miss Pennington, vaguely.

"You hunt, don't you?"

"I fish a little," answered Albert.

There was another silence. Miss Pennington turned to her other neighbor. Then Albert found courage to speak to his, a young man whom he knew quite well.

A November vacation was Hobson's choice with Albert. Sometimes, if trade was active, he got none at all. He came on the list of clerks at Jobson's. But, when he could, he thankfully packed his bag and went to spend two weeks in the Wisconsin woods with his only living relative, a great-uncle.

Great-uncle Morris was fond of the boy and good to him. His log cabin and little farm would hardly support one, and Uncle Morris held it the duty of every man to do his share of the world's work. Albert did what he could for Uncle Morris. He bought a small stock of groceries and shipped them ahead of his annual visits in order that the expense of his entertainment might not be a burden, and he faithfully sent the old man the best Christmas and birthday gifts that he could afford. Uncle Morris had told him once that the farm would be his some day and sometimes, when Albert felt despondent at his slow promotion, he pictured himself as living in the cabin, in old age, without even a nephew to visit him. The thought made him tender toward the old man.

Just as Albert was about to speak to Miss Pennington, once more, he heard her father's voice: "My dear young friends," and the rest of the dinner was devoted to remarks, partly instructive and partly catechetical, from that gentleman.

Nevertheless Albert went home rejoicing. He felt that he had made a great step. Thereafter, he was entitled to raise his hat respectfully to Miss Pennington on Sunday and upon the rare occasions when he met her on the street. Moreover, as in duty bound, he made his dinner call and acquitted himself with credit, his conversation being mostly with Mrs. Pennington.

Great-uncle Morris died suddenly that year, not long after Albert returned from his November vacation. It was a shock and a surprise to his nephew, for the old man was still vigorous and had seemed in even better health than usual. Albert obtained leave of absence without salary and, drawing his little balance from the savings bank, hurried to Wisconsin to be present at the funeral. The attendance was larger than he had expected; he was pleased to see how many friends and neighbors came to do honor to the dead. Chief among the assembly was Judge Steinberg, of Oshkosh, who greeted Albert cordially.

After the services were over, the judge accompanied Albert back to the cabin and seated himself in Uncle Morris' chair, with the air of a host rather than that of a guest.

"Of course, Mr. Whitney, you know that you are your great-uncle's sole heir, but I believe that you are not aware that Morris Whitney was one of the richest men in the county."

"No—he was?" gasped Albert.

Judge Steinberg smiled. Like most men, he enjoyed telling a good story.

"I have known your uncle all his life; we were friends in youth, and I have always enjoyed his confidence. Years ago he had an experience which caused him to lose faith in all women, and most men, but which it is not for me to repeat. He bought this farm, which is larger than it appears, for much of it is leased, and retired to this out-of-the-way spot. It was his delight that you should love him for himself alone. The annuity which your mother received, after your father's death, was paid by him on the express condition that she should not enlighten you in regard to his affairs. I have to congratulate you on the inheritance of a very considerable fortune, which is excellently well invested. I shall be pleased to act as your agent, as I was your uncle's, but that is for you to decide."

Albert listened with dazed attention, that hardly left room for joy, to the long list of stocks and bonds of which he was now the possessor. All of them were at par, and some of them far above it.

"I am utterly inexperienced," he said, "and know nothing of business, except in the hardware trade. I could ask nothing better than to have such an agent as yourself. If it is to your advantage as well as mine that you should manage the property, I am only too glad."

The family were at breakfast when Mr. Pennington's eye fell on this paragraph in the Daily Conservative:

"Albert Whitney, clerk in the employment of Jobson & Co., importers and wholesale dealers in hardware, is the sole heir to the estate of his great-uncle, Morris Whitney, of Door county, Wis., recently deceased. The estate, in addition to lands, amounts to over $500,000, mostly invested in standard stocks and bonds."

He read it aloud. "Albert Whitney," he said, "surely that is the excellent young man whom we know. I must telephone to Dr. Shepherd for confirmation."

"Hello—good morning, doctor. Albert Whitney, of Jobson & Co., is the same Mr. Whitney who belongs to our church, is he not?—I thought so. Have you read the paragraph about him in the Conservative, this morning?—I thought you would be.—So am I."

Mr. Pennington returned to the breakfast table. "I am sincerely rejoiced," he said. "It is providential that so large a fortune should come into the hands of a young man of such piety and rectitude."

Gladys looked up, pleased and interested. She thought again what nice dark eyes Mr. Whitney had.

"My dear," said her father to his wife, "we must invite him to dinner again and introduce him to some of our prominent people. As we did not ignore him in his obscurity, we can better afford to congratulate him on his prosperity."

At the select dinner party which followed Albert was the guest of honor, and escorted Mrs. Pennington to the table. He bore himself with quiet dignity, and Mr. Pennington took pride in the pearl which he had discovered.

The guests departed, the good man announced to his family: "Mr. Whitney is a gentleman of intelligence, as well as of integrity. It is rarely that we find so many good qualities united in the same young man."

Gladys smiled. "I am glad papa likes him so much. I always thought he was nice," she said to herself.

And the gate to Albert's happiness stood wide open.

A FAMILIAR SOUND.

Mrs. Raisin Kane—Oh! Raisin; there's the wedding march. Do you remember when we marched up the aisle ten years ago?

Mr. Raisin Kane—Yes; and I've been marching ever since.

THE UPPER REGISTER.

Mrs. Gotha Rocks—Oh! Doctor; you should really hear dear Ethel's voice. It is phenomenal, and ascends with such ease through the lower range and into the upper register.

Dr. Scepti Cal—Madame I deeply sympathize with you, but mine is the greater affliction, for when my cook practices her voice not only goes through the range and into the upper register, but comes out of it into my study.

This store is full and running over with all of the newest and latest designs that have been arriving for the past two weeks. Owing to a decline in the price of raw material entering into the construction of furniture, these new artistic designs can be had for much less money than you can purchase the old designs even at a reduction sale. The extra floor space now in use enables me to offer for your inspection the largest stock of fine furniture that has ever been shown on this market. Don't throw your money away on old goods when you can buy new for less.

Several young people of the West End enjoyed a delightful party at the residence of Mr. Foster Ross last night.

Miss Minnie Gorrell will sing at the literary meeting of the Epsilon Pi League of West Market church next Monday night.

Mr. Garland Daniel is having his store-room on the corner of Fayetteville and South Elm Streets renovated and painted preparatory to its occupancy by a barroom.

FUN FACTORY.

Patrons of the Academy of Music will have an opportunity to laugh on next Monday night. The laughing success, Uncle Hez, is booked for that date. The personnel of the company presenting this laughter bringing comedy includes Mr. Frank Adams, in the title role; Misses Margaret Raga, Elinore Reban, Mamie Snow, Messrs. F. E. DeBrune, Harry Lee, Master Frankie Ellwood, Bob Miller, William Dooks, and the Brothers Kado. Aside from the action of the piece specialties will be introduced by members of the company, including a musical mélange by Mr. Adam, buck and wing dancing by Mr. Bob Miller, a medley of coon songs by Ellwood and "The Animated Restaurant," by Brothers Kado. The latter is a specialty of great renown, the Brothers Kado having recently been with such companies as Yale's and the Hanlons. Too much cannot be said of the scenic display, the three complete sets making a striking and surprising effect. Under the rays of calciums the good points are brought out. Mr. Adams, the star, is a musician of some note and his specialties are always bright and catch. The prices for this splendid attraction will be 15, 25 and 35cts.

In Honor of George Washington.

A most delightful birthday party was given last night at the residence of Mr. G. T. Glascock, on Asheboro street, in honor of "the late George Washington." A merry troupe of young folk for a few brief hours laid aside their dignity and thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Games of various kinds were played. A game of progressive hearts was very entertaining, and the prize, statue of George Washington and his wife, was won by Misses Carrie McNairy and Bertha Jones. A fac-simile of the instrument used by George in the destruction of the now famous cherry tree, was the booby and it was awarded to Mr. Chas. E. Brower.

Delicious refreshments were served in the dining room, and after partaking of them the happy party dispersed, bearing with them remembrances of a most pleasant evening.

Some Social Events of the Week

In the refreshments was the color scheme carried out.

A 19th century game entertained the guests the first part of the evening. Mr. Ronald Wilson was the successful contestant in this, and received a pretty calendar. After this the time was devoted to a progressive Salamagundi party. In this, Mr. Hugh Fry accomplished more with "this little hatchet" than any of the others, and a book mark was his reward.

Mr. Bert Johnson fell heir to the booby—a good luck stamp case.

Those of the class present were: Misses Roche Michaux, Epsie Davis, Fannie Pierce, May Hendrix, Nellie Hendrix, Pearl Roberts, May McCullough, Laura Oberburg. Messrs. Hugh Fry, Claude Allen, Wingate Johnson, Arthur Smith, Marion McNairy and Ronald Wilson. Misses Annie Mebane, Annie Pitman, were also guests of the evening.

[CONDUCTED BY THE LOCAL UNION.]

Alcoholic liquors are poisonous because they contain alcohol.—Frank Woodbury, M.D.

No other poison kills as quick, if enough is taken at once.—B. W. Richardson, M. D.

When people understand what alcohol is and what it does, they will put it out of existence.—Willard Parker, M. D.

I can no more accept alcohol as food than I can chloroform or ether.—James Edmunds, M. D.

I hardly know any more potent cause of disease than alcohol.—Sir W. Gull, M. D.

Alcoholic drinks are poisonous in the same sense as are opium, arsenic, chloroform, etc., and should be sold only under the same laws as these poisons.—N. S. Davis, M. D.

Alcohol is a poison. It kills in large doses and half kills in smaller ones. It produces insanity, delirium, fits. It poisons the blood and wastes the man.—Prof James Miller, M. D.

Alcohol vivifies the blood, influences the stomach, overtaxes the heart, destroys the kidneys, hardens the liver, and softens the brain.—Norman Kerr, M. D.

There are more men killed, so far as I know English statistics, more men poisoned by alcohol, than are poisoned by all other poisons put together.—James Edmunds, M. D.

A man finds that he enjoys best health when he abstains altogether from wines and spirits, and drinks plain water.—Dr. McChison.

A man or woman who abstains is healthy and safe. A man or woman who indulges at all is unsafe. A man or woman who relies on alcohol is lost.—Sir B. W. Richardson, M. D.

There is no vital organ of the body in which there is not induced, sooner or later more or less disorder and disease by alcoholic drinks.—Sir H. Thompson, M. D.

A man may drink in such a way as never to feel consciously excited or embarrassed, yet ruin his health and cut short his days more speedily and surely than the man who is dead drunk every Saturday night.—Dr. Greenfield.

What Temperance Brings.

"More of food than we can tell;
More to buy with more to sell;
More of comfort, less of care;
More to eat and more to wear;
Happier homes, with faces brighter,
All our burdens rendered lighter.
Conscience clear and mind much stronger;
Debts much shorter, purses longer;
Hopes that drive away all sorrow,
And something laid up for tomorrow."

Sixteen Months Steady Wear

For a pair of our Goodyear welt calf shoes.

"I bought these shoes of you in October, '99 and have worn them every day and Sunday too for nearly sixteen months." That's what a mighty reliable citizen of Greensboro told us a few days ago about a pair of our $2.50 Goodyear welt shoes when he came in to get another pair. They are splendid wearing shoes made of plain American calf skin that does not crack or peel up, comfortable and neat. We have them in plain and cap toes, laced and congress, all sizes.
